

ICAME Web-site

Knut Hofland
The HIT-centre
Norwegian Computing Centre for the Humanities

Up-to-date information on the ICAME archive is found at:

<http://www.hit.uib.no/icame.html>

Here you will find samples and order forms for the available corpora, corpus manuals in HTML, back issues of ICAME Journal, an archive of the corpora discussion list, the ICAME bibliography and many references to useful resources on the Web.

Conditions on the use of ICAME corpus material

The following conditions govern the use of the corpus material distributed through ICAME:

1. No copies of corpora, or parts of corpora, are to be distributed under any circumstances without the written permission of ICAME.
2. Printouts of corpora, or parts thereof, are to be used for bona fide research of a non-profit nature. Holders of copies of corpora may not reproduce any texts, or parts of texts, for any purpose other than scholarly research without getting the written permission of the individual copyright holders, as listed in the manual or record sheet accompanying the corpus in question. (For material where there is no known copyright holder, the person(s) who originally prepared the material in computerized form will be regarded as the copyright holder(s).)
3. Commercial publishers and other non-academic organizations wishing to make use of part or all of a corpus or a printout thereof must obtain permission from all the individual copyright holders involved.

4. Publications making use of the material should include a reference to the relevant corpus (or corpora), giving the name of the corpus and the distributor.

Use of ICAME texts within an institution

Though ICAME texts cannot be used and distributed outside the institution making the order, they can be freely used within the institution (department, faculty, university) for the purposes of research and teaching. To prevent any use of the material for commercial and profit-making purposes, it is advisable to limit access to registered computer users within the institution. The way this is done may vary depending upon the institution making the order.